Share your vision of the Hill Country

2015 Hill Country Photo Contest ends May 31st

2014 photo contest 1st place winner by Tod Grubbs

Imagine the Texas Hill Country you want future generations to inherit. That is the call and theme for this year's photo contest hosted by the Hill Country Alliance (HCA). Winning images will become the visual heart of HCA's 2016 calendar. The deadline to enter is midnight, May 31, 2015.

HCA calls on anyone with a camera, professional and amateur alike, to show us what you imagine for the Hill Country of tomorrow. Will children of the next generation dangle their feet in clear running creeks, chase monarch butterflies through fields of wildflowers, and take dips in refreshing swimming holes? What will the view be from your favorite hilltop hideaway? HCA's annual Photo Contest is the perfect opportunity to share your vision of what the Hill Country means to you and what should be cherished and protected for the future.

Photos can be entered online at HCA's website through May 31. Winning photographers will receive cash prizes and their photos will be featured in the 2016 Texas Hill Country Calendar. Learn more at www.hillcountryalliance.org.

HCA is a collaboration of diverse people and organizations whose purpose is to raise public awareness and build community support around the need to protect the natural resources and heritage of the Texas Hill Country.
