

Clifton Ladd

Clif is Vice-President of Loomis Partners, Inc., and he manages the Environmental Group. He has over 25 years experience working for public and private sector clients across the southern United States in the areas of terrestrial and wetland ecology, wildlife management, endangered species conservation and permitting, ornithology, and environmental impact assessment. He holds a B.A. in biology from the University of Texas (1980) and a M.S. in wildlife biology from Southwest Texas State University (1985). Notable projects in Texas include the Balcones Canyonlands Conservation Plan, Lost Pines Habitat Conservation Plan (HCP), Hays County HCP, and Southern Edwards Plateau HCP. Mr. Ladd managed a statewide Conservation Needs Assessment for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and Texas Tech University. He is registered as a Certified Wildlife Biologist (C.W.B.) by the Wildlife Society (1989).